EBacc Excellence: Maximise progress and raise attainment at KS4

Design and implement an achievement curriculum that provides students with the support, understanding and knowledge to excel within the EBacc criteria

“Alongside the number of students who secure five good GCSEs including English and mathematics, the performance tables will record the number who secure the combination of GCSEs which make up the English Baccalaureate. Those schools which succeed in giving their pupils a properly rounded academic education will be more easily identified”.

(‘The Importance of Teaching’, The Schools White Paper, 2010)

Schools in England are now subject to new performance measures based on how many pupils achieve grades A*– C in five core subjects – maths, English, two science qualifications, a foreign language and either history or geography. Whilst the DfE cite this as a logical step to ensure all young people receive a well-rounded education, schools across the country are wondering how this new measure of attainment will affect reinvestment in core subjects, the quality of teaching and learning and progression pathways for student at KS4.

The EBacc Excellence: Maximise progress and raise attainment at KS4 conference is your opportunity to hear the current status of the EBacc and how this performance measure will affect your school. Return to your organisation ready to update and prepare colleagues on how this new gauge of attainment will impact their daily practices to ensure that come August, your school is topping the performance tables.

Over the course of this timely event, you will gain practical advice on how to raise performance and participation in core EBacc subjects whilst maintaining standards within a rigorous curriculum designed to accelerate pupil progress.

Stream A is specifically designed for school leaders and curriculum experts, focusing on the following key areas:

- Strategic use of performance data to inform judgements about which students will benefit from the EBacc
- The financial and staffing implications of the EBacc on your school budget
- Building outstanding practice amongst teaching staff to ensure subject knowledge is translated into lesson plans

Stream B will focus on practical classroom delivery:

- Incorporating effective teaching and learning strategies in lessons to plan for improvement and evaluate performance
- Designing lessons with clear objectives and strategies to drive up expectations and outcomes
- Planning for progression and intervention at KS4 to boost A*–C pass rates

Who should attend?

- Headteachers
- Deputy Headteachers
- Assistant Headteachers
- Curriculum Managers/Directors
- Lead Teachers for Learning & Teaching
- Assessment Coordinators
- Heads of Year
- Classroom Teachers

This is the definitive event for school leaders and curriculum experts to gain exclusive insight into how this new performance measure will affect your school. It will be a unique opportunity to hear what experts have to say, and to take time to reflect on current practice with colleagues from across the country.

Attend this conference to:

- Hear latest national updates on the EBacc and how this new performance measure will affect your school
- Strengthen core subject teaching and learning to ensure pupils’ progress is accelerated and new floor standards met
- Provide and coordinate a range of flexible progression pathways for your students
- Design lessons with clear objectives and strategies to drive up expectations and outcomes
- Explore the financial and staffing implications of the EBacc on your school budget
- Harness the communication skills of staff to engage and enthuse students to promote independent learning at KS4

Comments from previous Optimus Education conference delegates:
