

Privacy notices checklist
What to include	Yes/no/still to do
What personal information you hold
What you do with it/are planning to do with it
What data you actually need
Whether you are collecting the data you need
Whether there are multiple data controllers
When to give privacy information
When you are collecting sensitive information
When the intended use of the information is likely to be unexpected or objectionable
When providing personal information, or failure to do so, will have a significant effect on the individual
When the information will be shared with a third party
Where to give privacy information:
orally
in writing through signage electronically
How to write a privacy notice
Ensure text is clear and succinct
Avoid acronyms and jargon
Use a style that your audience will understand Ensure notices are appropriate for the individual Align with your school values and ethos
Ensure you have a review process for your notices and they can be updated	