PRACTICAL STRATEGIES

How to teach the trickiest topics within RSE

PARENTAL ENGAGEMENT

Expert panel to help you ensure meaningful parental consultation

AGE AND STAGE APPROPRIATENESS

A developmental overview for your RSE provision

A survey conducted by the Sex Education Forum in 2019 showed that 'less than 6 in 10 young people learnt all they needed to at school about healthy relationships, abusive relationships, grooming and how to get help if you were sexually abused or assaulted'.

With the statutory changes from September 2020 and the increase of sex and relationships portrayal in the media and online, it's now more important than ever to ensure we are educating tomorrow's adults appropriately and effectively.

Our conference is here to provide you with clarity of what to teach and when, new practical strategies to take back to your classroom, and advice and guidance for dealing with parental engagement and consultation.

EMPOWERING STAFF

Build confidence within your staff to teach RSE and tackle the difficult topics sensitively and effectively

LET'S TALK ABOUT SEX

Hear new ideas for teaching sex education at primary and secondary in an accurate and inclusive way

YOUR SCHOOL COMMUNITY

How to engage your school, parent, and faith communities and provide a comprehensive programme which supports your pupils' physical, emotional and mental development
