The Benefits

SEMH

Focus on the importance of strong relationships with students and families to spot, support and prevent issues arising from poor mental health.

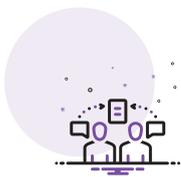

Evaluate

Review your existing provision and identify opportunities for new ideas and improvement.

Attend

Understand drivers of attendance, and gain new initiatives to support a return to the classroom.

Keynotes

→ SEND Improvement and AP plan update

Hear the latest updates from the SEND and AP plan, and gain clarity on changes that could affect your practice.

→ Co-occurrence of SEND and SEMH need

Children with SEND are more likely to develop mental health issues in school; how can you spot, support and prevent these needs, whilst supporting their academic success?

→ Build compassionate relationships with your students and yourself

Discover the importance of compassionate relationships, and how they benefit your students and yourself.

Breakout Sessions

Understand your entitlement of funding

Manage budgets and funding effectively to provide high-quality provision.

Utilise hybrid learning to support inclusion

Support students at risk of exclusion or frequent absence with hybrid learning that helps boost confidence and a return to the classroom.

Hearing the child's voice at the heart of SEMH intervention

With children's mental health at a critical level, hearing the child's voice and their experience of the world is vital for them to feel safe and able to develop the essential social and emotional skills for life and learning.

Self-evaluate your SEND provision

Review and evaluate your current provision, outlining areas of excellence and opportunities for improvement.

Build the confidence of your teaching team

Upskill your teaching team with inclusive strategies to boost their confidence in teaching students with SEND.

Understand drivers of absence, and how to support attendance

Gain new initiatives for supporting attendance of your students with SEND and gain greater insight into drivers of absence from ImpactEd Evaluation's latest report.

Legal guidance – EHCP case law

Gain clarity on common myths and expectations when writing and applying for an EHCP.

Engage families from ethnic minority communities

Effectively engage parents from ethnic minority communities to collaborate and support your SEND provision.

Effective interventions

Monitor and adapt your interventions to ensure they are a positive use of student and staff time.
